Kerrville, Texas (June 2, 2016) – The City of Kerrville is pleased to announce former Director of Parks and Recreation, Malcolm Matthews, has been selected to serve as the interim Deputy City Manager, effective Tuesday, June 7, 2016.

Matthews will take over for outgoing Deputy City Manager, Kristine Day, whose final day working for the City of Kerrville will be Friday, June 10, 2016.

Matthews has more than 35 years of experience in parks and recreation design, public administration, and natural resource management and preservation, primarily through municipal governments. He worked with the City of Kerrville for six years before retiring in February 2016.

Prior to joining the City of Kerrville as the Director of Parks and Recreation, Matthews served as Director of Parks and Recreation for the cities of Corpus Christi and San Antonio, overseeing the development and execution of numerous public projects.

“I look forward to working with Mr. Matthews. He is extremely accomplished in all aspects of public administration and brings an amazing wealth of knowledge and leadership to our organization.
